Ma vision

Image

I spent too many years trying to figure out who I was and what I wanted to do with my life. My mission now is to help people who feel they are stuck in a dead-end job, discover who they really are in an effort to do what they were meant to do and be who they were meant to be. I have great success with people in all walks of life, from professionals in middle management, young people just starting their careers, and seasoned executives who want a change. Most people are afraid of changing beca

I am passionate about speaking in public and inspiring others to do what they love.

Mon parcours

Image

I spent many years working in marketing and communications and then went back to school for an MBA, only to continue working in the same field. A major life event made me realize that this was not the path for me. I chose to become a Career Coach because there is no harder product to market than oneself, and worked in Career Transition for many years. In the process I also studied and worked in organizational development, obtaining an M.A. in Human Systems Organization. My real passion howev
