English Activities Committee

For the last few years, the board of directors of the ICF Québec's chapter has worked towards being more inclusive of the Anglophone community. Various efforts have been deployed to that end and more recently a new committee was formed.

The English Activities Committee (EAC), as it is named, recently undertook a strategic planning initiative through a series of meetings, led by Orest Lysymanko, a member of our group. Our goal was to create clarity and direction for future initiatives.

We noted happily that participants in our activities cover a broad range of coaches, focusing on different markets and represented by both Anglophone and Francophone coaches alike, in a warm and welcoming atmosphere. The extensive networking that occurs both before and particularly after activities is a strong testament to that fact.

The committee wanted to get more focused as we look ahead at how best to serve the interest of our community through ICF Québec.

Everyone on the committee was totally engaged in the planning process and there was a strong sense of teamwork and openness as we worked through the various elements of strategic planning, which will help us plan activities going forward.

We wanted to share the main part of our work with the community and to invite your suggestions and comments.

This year, we are focusing on increasing the quality of our main events: Coaching Breakfasts, Coaches Dinner Exchanges, peer to peer coaching

What was implemented:

- Strong line-up of speakers (many thanks to Pat Snow)
- Active committee members with outreach and support to other ICF Québec
- Speaker's guidelines
- Evaluation form

Call for action:

Again, we invite you to get involved and help us bring innovative and relevant programs to the community. The committee will consider all suggestions. Can you suggest high-level speakers and topics of interest to you, for our future events? Make it your business to invite other English-speaking coaches from your network to see the increasingly broad attraction to ICF Québec.
